Broome County Stop DWI and The Binghamton Restaurant Week Association are teaming up to offer an alcohol awareness training seminar.

They will host a Training for Intervention Procedures program aimed at people who want to become TIPS trainers. TIPS is a program that addresses responsible service, sale and consumption of alcohol. The program also allows businesses to learn about minimizing damage by drunk patrons and allows for discounted insurance rates. Usually the training program is held out of the area.

By having it at Little Venice Restaurant in January, people who want to become trainers will be able to save on travel expenses.

Piero Lisio says, "The savings is also realized by conducting the training locally. Otherwise, when we originally looked at going to the training, we would have to stay overnight in a hotel, gas, things like that. So having it in Broome County helps all the Broome County restaurants that want to participate."

The program will be January 9th and 10th and is only for people who want to become trainers. It will cost $499 dollars per person.

If you'd like to register log onto bcstopdwi.com. If you're a business and want employees to become TIPS certified through a one day session, you can also contact Broome County Stop DWI and arrange for a session.
